Chris joined Nehmad Perillo Davis & Goldstein after several years of serving the public as an assistant prosecutor in Monmouth and Atlantic counties. His practice is now concentrated in the fields of business litigation, real estate litigation, and land use.

Chris is a proven litigator. As an assistant prosecutor, he acted as lead trial counsel in multiple cases that were tried to conclusion before juries in the Superior Court. Additionally, he has litigated a variety of bench trials and numerous nontestimonial and testimonial motions.

Chris also has experience as an appellate advocate, having written briefs in response to municipal court and direct appeals and having appeared for oral argument before the Appellate Division.

Chris began his legal career working as a law clerk to the Honorable John T. Mullaney, Jr., J.S.C. (retired) in the Monmouth Vicinage of the Superior Court.

Prior to his clerkship, Chris earned his law degree from Widener University School of Law. He graduated magna cum laude, received several awards for his academic achievements, and was a member of the Moe Levine Trial Advocacy Honor Society.

As an undergraduate student, Chris attended Rutgers University where he graduated magna cum laude after completing a dual major in History and Criminal Justice and a minor in Criminology.
